

האוניברסיטה
העברית
בירושלים

The Department of International Relations and the Leonard Davis Institute for International Relations announce a call for candidates for 2026/27

The Davis Graduate School of International Relations (TELEM IR)

The DGSIR combines funded MA & PhD studies

Application deadline: May 15, 2026

The DGSIR is a five-year graduate program structured along the lines of leading programs worldwide.

The DGSIR, unique in Israel, strives to train first-rate PhD students who will successfully integrate into the academic community or the policy world. It seeks to provide its students with the financial means that will allow them to focus on and develop their academic career.

- An intensive and challenging learning environment
- Studying with a selective group of high-achieving students
- A mix of English and Hebrew in learning and writing
- Admitted students receive funding for the duration of the program (subject to satisfactory progress)
- Most students serve as teaching or research assistants

For further information, please contact:

Web: <http://info.huji.ac.il/International-Relations-Telem>

Ms. Hila Ben Eli, Department of International Relations, 02-5883233, hilaben@savion.huji.ac.il

Prof. Gadi Heimann, DGSIR Head, gadi.heimann@mail.huji.ac.il

Scan the codes and join us on social media.

